Vision & Mission

VISION

To create a criminal justice model that demonstrates respect for and understands the rights of the children affected by their mothers' imprisonment and recognizes and helps to address the many burdens carried by the children and families as a result of incarceration.

A criminal justice system that only incarcerates women who are a danger to society.

A prison and an aftercare system that will truly help the mothers re-establish themselves and reunite them with their children.

Executive Directors Statements

Carol Potok

*Executive Director
Retired 2022*

Thank you so much for your continued support of AIM. It means so much to me! This year was bittersweet due to my retirement. After 25 years, Larnetta and I have decided to retire. Leaving may be one of the hardest things I will ever do. But there comes a time to pass the torch---I am confident that the new staff will continue to expand AIM and its reach to those behind the walls.

I am grateful to our Board of Directors--some who are like family to us and have stood solidly behind us for many years--during good times and bad. Their belief in our mission and unconditional commitment to the program has kept us going.

We have an amazing group of volunteers and supporters who dedicate their time and resources to helping us bring our families together. Without you, we could never be as effective. No words can express how much your dedication to AIM means to the women we serve and us.

Donna Collins

*Incoming Executive Director
2023 -*

I am incredibly grateful for this opportunity to carry the torch Carol Potok has so graciously lit!

I began my journey with AIM 11 years ago as an intern. I have had the opportunity to work with all our programs in some capacity. I have met many supporters and look forward to meeting new ones as I take on the Executive Director role. The new staff and I are excited and eager to get going in 2023.

2022 was all about milestones-- 35 years of service AND a double retirement. We spent most of the year slowly reentering the prison in person after nearly three years. We expanded our partnerships and brought awareness to new supporters around the world.

Reentering the prison has been an exciting moment not only for the staff by the families we serve. Our visitation program is growing rapidly. We had tremendous success in implementing the visitation program at the Birmingham Work Release.

History

Aid to Inmate Mothers (AIM) Inc., was founded in 1987 by Church Women United, The Alabama Prison Project, The Alabama Department of Corrections and a group of committed volunteers who discovered that there were many women in prison who never saw their children. AIM's founders recognized that children of incarcerated parents needed regular contact with their mothers, yet often couldn't visit because their guardians were unwilling or unable to take them. In 1990, AIM separated from the Alabama Prison Project and became an independent nonprofit agency.

With a strong, statewide volunteer network, AIM continues to provide monthly visits for children to reunite with their incarcerated mothers. Guardians report that their children's emotional health profoundly improves when the children see their mothers and help them perform better in every aspect of their daily lives.

Our visitation program has been the focus of our agency since the beginning, but through the continued support from our volunteers and sponsors, we have been able to implement more programs. Our expanded services include a monthly storybook program, summer camp for kids, family outreach programs, birthday and Christmas gifts for families, and classes for the mothers in prison. Our services are extended to mothers at Tutwiler Prison, Tutwiler Annex, Birmingham Work Release, and the Montgomery Community Based Facility.

In 2010, we helped more than 200 women adjust to the outside world—many reuniting with their children. Only 11% of the women returned—as compared to 23% recidivism rate of women who had not gone through our programs.

In 2011, started a project that we had always dreamed of—a transitional home for women leaving prison. In 2012, AIM was given approval on a grant from the City of Montgomery to purchase the building. In June 2013, we became the proud owners of 660 Morgan Avenue. We have since moved all of our offices to the new building.

What We Do

AIM reunites mothers and children separated by prison. Our goal is to enrich the lives of both incarcerated mothers and their families through programs that provide education and support.

The visitation program brings families together each month for visits within the prison. Aside from these monthly sessions, AIM offers programs to help mothers and children stay connected – including the Storybook Program and the Girl Scout troop. Through generous donations, we also help the extended families who are taking care of the children.

We understand that the best way to help incarcerated women be better mothers and citizens is to give them opportunities to learn essential life skills. Prison Classes and the Health Education program help these women learn information on parenting, job readiness, and personal health.

Care doesn't just stop once the mothers are released from prison. Re-entry can be especially hard, and this transition puts the women at risk for relapsing into old routines. Project Reconnect is an aftercare program that helps them secure jobs and housing and provides them with essential counseling

Mcwane Partnership

This year we began a new partnership with the Mcwane Center in Birmingham, AL. The first project with the kids was showing them how to build tiny robots. Their robot would then trace lines the kids drew on paper.

This stem project was well-received by kids and moms! We are excited about the future of this partnership.

We are finally back! In May we not only had our first visit in two years--we added a new facility! We are extremely happy about the success of our new visitation program at the Birmingham Work Release.

Not uncommon to find moms getting down to their kid's level and having fun on the floor!

Carol & Nydia we're loading for a visit--food, games & toys!

Our staff & volunteers make this program look easy!

Families enjoyed new games thanks to the Kiwanis Club.

Visitation participation is growing rapidly! We are excited to help more kids visit their moms! We also assist these families with supplies for back-to-school and Christmas gifts.

Happy Volunteers, AIM Staff & DOC Staff

Alabama Department of Corrections Women's Services received a grant to improve visits for all children visiting the prison. Through our partnership AIM kids, were the first to participate in this monumental experience. Nothing like this has ever happened in Alabama prisons! The Active Families curriculum is commonly used among military families.

AIM Staff Donna and Nydia are certified instructors and assisted during the first in-person visit with the kiddos, moms and guardians.

Participants received top notch instructions from Karen, a certified instructor and Kelly Simpson the author of the program. The ladies trained staff and facilitated our first visit using this program.

Families learn interactive ways to bond and enhance their relationships through team building activities & games.

This grant is providing much-needed accommodations for children visiting the prison.

Accommodations such as:

- Entrance through a private gate
- Building a playground
- Officers in plain clothes
- Lessons that allow hands on experience with families during visit

BABIES, PERMANENT HOUSING, AWESOME INTERNS

Baby K.J is here!!

Mom had a few complications after delivery but she is doing much better. Thank you again to everyone who donated baby items to help not only this mother but other pregnant ladies in our program. A little bit of support goes along way!

6 lbs, 1 oz

Born healthy!!!

This beautiful home belongs to one of our expectant mothers. We assisted her in finding a safe place to raise her son. She has worked so hard to get everything ready for the arrival of baby KJ (June 27th).

Thank you

To everyone who has donated diapers, wipes, and baby supplies!
We can't do this without the love and support of donors!

I could not have done it with out you all! Thanks for all you do!! Congratulations to the AIM staff for being great!! You are our favorite all time intern (lol). Vernetta Wright

Tameca Cole & Faye Mitchell

Tameca Cole, a long-time friend of AIM, received a $100,000 grant for her Art work. Tameca's art has been displayed at MOMA in New York City and in Birmingham, AL. We are so proud of her!!!

Storybook

We take several children's books to the prison---mothers choose a book to read on video camera. We then take those videos and make a DVD for the kids. We mail the DVD and book to the child, so they can hear and see their mother reading.

We started this program in 2000 with cassette tapes--which became outdated. In 2011, we received funding for a much-needed upgrade to flip cameras to make the DVDs.

As dvds become a thing of the past we are in the process upgrading to a streaming service, which will allow us to send the DVDs electronically! We will still mail books but now siblings wont need to share DVDs.

"My Brother Is Away"

Sara Greenwood, author of "My Brother Is Away" donated copies of her story, which tells of the hard feelings and difficulties she experienced while having an incarcerated family member. This story relates to so many of our families because they experience these same feelings as well and it is important that they know they are not alone in this. This book will give our families the opportunity to bond over a familiar story and look toward hope for the future.

Thank you, Sara!

We received a generous donation from two authors this year.

Both storylines are relatable to children of incarcerated women--because of the family separation.

Project Reconnect

We finally went back into the prison in person this year! This long overdue reunion was welcomed by doc staff and eager women. In addition to our regular in-person classes, we maintained zoom classes. We expanded our monthly WHI FI classes to include a workout class with a physical trainer. We continued our various life skill classes and added a new holiday tradition--"ornaments for the holidays". The women paint ornaments to mail home to their families for the holidays.

High:

zoom capability remained optional, allowing a broad array of topics and opportunities for presenters

Low:

class sizes still restricted to smaller numbers due to covid protocols

We are always looking for special guest facilitators to share their knowledge on subjects.

WHI-FI

Each month at Tutwiler via zoom, healthcare presenters from around the state come to share information with the women. This month's topic "Feel The Burn" was quite hot with the ladies! They received an intense workout from our presenter Jesse.

Juneteenth Success

AIM Assistant Director Mrs. Moncrief-Harvey had a blast at the Juneteenth Celebration in Montgomery.

AIM Intern Aliyah and AIM Staffer Nydia had a blast at the Service-Learning Expo at AUM's Montgomery campus.

DELIBERATE INDIFFERENCE

On November 1, 2022, over 200 people took part in a reception, resource fair and live radio podcasts "Deliberate Indifference" about Alabama prisons that featured a line up of directly impacted justice involved persons and other guests including lawyers, advocates, among others. They shared stories about surviving prison life, getting released from draconian prison sentences mostly with help from Alabama Appleseed. They also shared their successes at restoring their lives, and we were gifted with music and heard recorded poetry by prison residents.

AIM STAFF NYDIA AND DONNA ATTENDED A RESOURCE FAIR HELD BY JF INGRAM TECHNICAL COLLEGE AT TUTWILER. OVER 100 WOMEN PARTICIPATED IN THE EVENT. THEY WERE INTRODUCED TO VARIOUS COMMUNITY RESOURCES. WE PROVIDED INFORMATION ON CREATING AN EMAIL, RESUME TIPS AND INFORMATION ON THE ARESET PROGRAM. LOOKING FORWARD TO THE NEXT FAIR! IF YOU ARE INTERESTED IN ATTENDING AN EVENT AT THE PRISON, LET US KNOW! IF YOU HAVE AN EVENT WE CAN ATTEND LET US KNOW!

Individuals such as AIM's former client, Faye Mitchell, spoke about her treatment during her incarceration while giving birth. Others spoke, including Deborah Neal about prison education and essential reforms needed such as creating a physical environment conducive to enhancing the learning outcomes for a diverse population.

MACH Resource Fair

AIM staff Nydia Saffold and Donna Collins attended a Homeless Resource Fair in Montgomery hosted by MACH. The ladies met with several new potential clients and made contact with several other organizations AIM can partner with!

Community Outreach●

It takes a village not only applies to raising children---it also coincides with reentry. Women leaving prison often leave with $10, a bus pass, and what few belongings they have collected during the incarceration. With the community's support, we can provide wrap-around services to incarcerated women and their families. These services include hygiene, bus passes, clothing, undergarments, food, transportation, etc.

Our Value

When mothers become incarcerated, the burden of raising their children often falls to family members or other guardians. Financially and emotionally supporting the children of inmate mothers puts additional strain on families, and these caregivers make many sacrifices to ensure that the children are well taken care of while their mothers are away.

AIM helps caregivers by offering much-needed financial relief, as well as providing a strong support system. As funds allow, we help caregivers pay bills, afford childcare and purchase essentials such as school supplies. We have even been able to, on occasion, send children to a week-long summer camp. We also use in-kind donations to provide children with birthday and Christmas gifts.

DR. HARPER HAS BEEN TEACHING PARENTING
CLASSES FOR THE AIM
PROGRAM FOR MORE THAN 10 YEARS.

Q. What have you learned about the mothers you teach?

Dr. Harper: Moms are the same no matter where you are in life. We love our children with a fierce love. The Moms I have worked with through AIM hold a special place in my heart because of their eagerness to learn a different way to be with their children— and to strengthen their bonds. When the connections start forming its always a goosebump moment for me!

Q. What stories stick in your mind from your students?

Dr. Harper: One of the mothers in my class told me that she had not spoken to her child in years. After our class on communication, she wrote a letter using our techniques of “I” versus “You” (eg. “I cannot imagine how badly you are hurting” instead of “You need to talk to me right now”). After she sent the letter, she was able to speak to her child on the phone, and we all celebrated as a class!

Q. What do you want the mothers to take away from your classes?

I want them to remember not to let fear and anger make their parenting decisions for them—to try hard to keep those emotions in check. I want them to teach and model good behavior instead of relying on punishment—which might stop bad behaviors but doesn’t teach them new ones. When Moms get this point, it’s amazing to watch their parenting goals change.

Parenting

Ladies at the Birmingham Work Release received nice gift bags for completing the Parenting Class with Dr. Bridget Harper. COVID continues to make classes challenging at the prisons. With the help of staff we are able to offer classes via zoom in smaller groups.

Maintaining a sense of normalcy can dramatically improve a child’s emotional state. Children displaced from their home are at high risk for teen pregnancy, low self esteem, behavioral or disciplinary problems and school drop-out. They are often sent to live with elderly grandparents and are uprooted from their home and school life.

"Tide Against Time"

The University of Alabama

Special thank you to Kaila Pouncy at the University of Alabama, Tide Against Time and the Lambda Zeta Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta. They collected over 300 items for the pack-a-purse project! Below is part of an article written about her and her organization. Click the link below to read the full story

Kayla Solino | @kaylasolino, Staff Reporter

February 2, 2022

Tide Against Time is a new organization dedicated to educating students about mass incarceration and the Alabama prison system. Kaila Pouncy, a junior on the prelaw track majoring in criminal justice and political science, worked on the idea for the organization over the last year and held the first meeting for Tide Against Time on Friday, Jan. 21, via Zoom. Pouncy said her advocacy against mass incarceration was spurred by an internship experience that allowed her to sit in on court proceedings. "I recently had a federal internship with a judge in Tuscaloosa this past summer," she said. "And so he let us observe a lot of court proceedings, a lot of hearings. I immediately became very sensitive to the issues of the community, seeing the type of things that people go through on an individual basis, and how certain political and socioeconomic trends affect the lives of different people."

Thanks so much for stopping by!

In early November, Social Work researchers/college professors from Southern Connecticut University and Yale University came to visit us to do interviews with our clients and share results of a previous survey done with our clients. They brought along two of their students. We held a focus group with four of our formerly incarcerated women and a discussion was held on how sleep is effected by prison, both before and afterwards, typical diet of an inmate, and privacy in the bathroom. The women were very open and shared lots of details about their lives inside the institution.
